

Department of Geography

Program Specific Outcomes (Undergraduate course)

On successful completion of the B.A. Geography program, the students are able to:-

PSO1- Have the basic idea of the origin of Earth and the planetary system, motions of the earth.

PSO2- Understand the concepts of internal (endogenetic) and external (exogenetic) forces in the evolution of the lithosphere.

PSO3- Understand the structure and composition of the Atmosphere, weather and climate phenomena, and climate change.

PSO4- Can suggest an alternative solution to natural and climatic hazards and may help in suggesting better mitigation strategies to the policymakers.

PSO5- Build the idea about the coastal environment and become sensitive to its issues and problems.

PSO6- Better understanding of their continent -Asia. Have a respectful attitude towards the people and society of other Asian countries.

PSO7- Learn the dynamics of Geography and Economic activities and correlate them with the other nation's economies.

PSO8- Know the neighbouring country's Geographical setting and economical aspects which may help them in understanding the neighbouring nations like China, Japan, Pakistan, etc.

PSO9- Establish comprehensive knowledge about the various economic activities, trade, and commerce which is being practiced worldwide and learn how different geographical setting leads to the development of certain economic activities.

PSO9- Demonstrate the capability to analyse, understand and draw valid inferences from quantitative and qualitative data they acquire through fieldwork and project report.

PSO10- Develop different techniques to represent data in the form of Cartograms, histograms, projections, and toposheet. It will help them to visualize the data Geographically.

PSO11- Can understand the relationship between man and the environment and will help them in settling down in any part of the world.

PSO12- Build the quality of leadership and take advantage of regional development as they have learned about the people and geographical setting of most of the nations in the world.

